

According to information I've received from my internet service provider, the FCC, by making this proposed change, will damage the competitiveness of small ISPs and ultimately limit customer choice by driving small companies out of business.